General Information.

Design and Character of the College.

It is the aim of this institution to furnish young men and women with a thorough mental and moral training. Instruction will be conducted on Christian principles, and it will be the aim of the instructors to have it pervaded with a strong and healthy religious influence. Education will be directed with special reference to health, self-control, Christian character, and usefulness in life.

Two liberal courses of study—the Classical and the Scientific—have been arranged, each extending over four years. These courses of study are open to students of both sexes. Ladies reside with the lady teachers in a separate building; but students of both sexes are instructed in the same classes, enjoy the same privileges, and may take the same degrees.

Entrance and Class Standing.

In order to enter the Preparatory Department, students must be somewhat proficient in Arithmetic, English Grammar, Geography, Reading, and Spelling. To enter the College Department, all the studies prescribed in the preparatory Courses, or their equivalents, must have been pursued. Applicants for advanced standing in either department, must pass examinations upon the studies completed by the class, or present certificates from schools in which such studies have been pursued. Students in regular classes, remitting their studies, must not assume that they will be excused from any prescribed study.

Irregular students, whether pursuing select studies or studying with a view to completing one of the liberal courses, will not be permitted to take advanced studies until, in the judgment of the Faculty, they are prepared to pursue them with profit. Nor will they be permitted to take studies in such order as seriously to impair their knowledge and discipline, by breaking the continuity of study in the several departments. Such students will not be permitted to push on in Mathematics and Science, to the neglect of English Grammar and kindred studies.

Examinations and Degrees.

At the close of each term, each class in the College Department is subjected to a thorough examination upon the studies of the term. In the Preparatory Department, monthly examinations are held. The degree of Bachelor of Arts is conferred on those who have completed the Classical Course, and the degree of Bachelor of Science upon those who have completed the Scientific. Graduates of the Classical Course, of three years' standing, and of the Scientific Course, of four years' standing, who have been engaged in any literary or professional pursuit, and have sustained a good moral character, may, on application, receive the degree of Master of Arts.

Expenses.

Tuition in any College Studies, ...	$8.00 a Term.
Tuition in Preparatory Studies, ...	7.00 "
Drawing, ...	3.00 "
Room Rent, ...	$3.00 or 4.00 "
Incidentals, ...	2.00 "
Board in the Hall with the Teachers, . . .	2.50 a week.

There are no extra charges. German is included in the above. Washing is done at very low rates. Students furnish their own fire and lights. All charges payable in advance.

About two hundred students may have rooms and board in the College buildings. Several of the teachers reside there and board at the same table with the students. The middle building is exclusively for ladies. Board may be had in private families at reasonable rates.

Self-Help.

It is the purpose of the College to afford every possible encouragement to worthy students of limited means. Young ladies who wish, may assist in the domestic department, aud thus pay in part for their board. None are required to render any domestic service, and none are allowed to work more than two hours a day, except in special cases.

Those who expect such employment must apply for it before coming. Young men who need it, may generally find remunerative employment for an hour or two a day, but the College does not agree to furnish it. Many students of both sexes are able to help themselves by teaching in the district schools. Persevering students, of economical habits and good health, may, by taking time enough, complete the course, and earn a large portion or even the whole of their own support. But no person should expect to pay the whole or a very large part of his expenses by his own labor, and still complete the course within the usual time. Those who are in earnest for an education, and have tact in helping themselves, need not be deterred for want of means.

Parents should consider that a good education is always worth more than it costs; and that money well expended in it is the wisest investment for their children. Dutiful students should never be required, except by necessity, to earn their own support, or any considerable part of it, while getting their education.

Outfit.

The rooms in the College Buildings are furnished with stove, bedstead, wash-stand, table, and plain chairs. Other furniture—bed, bedding, lamp, curtains, etc.,—is supplied by the student. A carpet, even if it be but a small one, a table-spread, and everything that contributes to the comfort and pleasantness of a room, should be brought, if possible from home. The beneficial influence upon the student's manners, of surrounding him in his room with all that makes home cheerful and attractive, can hardly be over-estimated. Every student should be provided with table-napkins, an umbrella, overshoes, and plenty of warm under-clothing.

Books of Reference.

It is highly desirable that every student have a copy of Webster's Unabridged Dictionary, last revision. To students in a regular course, this is indispensable. Next to this, the National Pictorial edition of Webster is best. No other edition should be used. Students in regular course should also have Smith's Classical Dictionary, Smith's Dictionary of Antiquities, and Long's Classical Atlas.

Regulations.

The regulations of the College are few and simple, and designed to cultivate manliness and self-respect, by placing the student largely upon his honor and personal responsibility. Students attend public worship in some church regularly twice on the Sabbath. Punctual attendance on all prescribed exercises, and cheerful observance of the rules are required. Study hours must be spent in study. Students are expected to be exemplary in morals and manners. None but those who earnestly desire improvement are wanted here, and such as continue to be disorderly or idle, cannot be allowed to remain. Students will be admitted at any time, but it is very important that they should enter promptly at the beginning of the term, and remain until the close of examinations. Excuses from recitations will not be given except for sickness or unusual causes. Unless it is strictly necessary, students will not be allowed to make visits home or elsewhere, if their absence would include the time of any recitation. Even when no recitation is lost, such visits are highly detrimental to a student's progress, and should be discouraged. Parents are requested to make their arrangements accordingly. No student is permitted to visit the room of a student of the opposite sex, except by special permission in case of severe sickness.

The Registrar will send to parents or guardians a monthly report of the scholarship and deportment of each student in the Preparatory Department.

Lectures.

Lectures will be given on Physiology, Chemistry, Mental and Moral Science, Logic, English Literature, and History. There will also be one lecture a week, throughout the year, on subjects of practical information to students.

Library, Cabinet, and Apparatus.

The College Library contains over thirty-eight hundred volumes, and is constantly increasing. The Cabinet is furnished with a valuable collection of Minerals, which has now been permanently located and arranged. The Chemical Department is provided with Laboratory and Lecture Room, and there is considerable apparatus for the illustration of the other Physical Sciences.

Literary Societies.

There are three Literary Societies :—one for gentlemen of the Preparatory Department, another for gentlemen of the College Department, and a third for ladies. These Societies have well-furnished halls, and afford their members valuable means of voluntary improvement.

The James Fund,

FOR THE ENCOURAGEMENT OF ENGLISH COMPOSITION.

The interest of a fund of $1,000, given by Mrs. John W. James, of Boston, for this special purpose, will be annually appropriated, by the direction of the Faculty, to the four students in College Classes, who, during the year, have made most improvement in English Composition.

The Rufus Dodge Fund.

The late Rufus Dodge of Beaver Dam left to the College a legacy of $5,000, as a permanent fund to aid worthy indigent female students in getting their education. The interest of this fund will be annually distributed among such students, for this purpose, according to their need.

Location and Buildings.

Ripon is reached by the Chicago & Northwestern and Milwaukee & St. Paul, and the Sheboygan & Fond du Lac Railways. It is one of the most attractive places in the State. The scenery is pleasant and the climate healthful. The grounds occupied by the institution are beautifully located, commanding extensive views of the surrounding country. The College has three large stone buildings, three stories high. These afford ample room for the purposes of instruction; also for Chapel, Cabinet, Laboratory, Library, Literary Societies, Reading Room, Boarding Hall, and residence for teachers and students.

Growth and Wants.

The progress of the College has been very encouraging. All the departments of instruction are now well organized and filled with permanent instructors. During the past year, besides the improvement of the buildings, valuable additions have been made to the Library and Cabinet. The Endowment Subscription has reached nearly $50,000, of which about $42,000 is paid in and well invested.

But it is evident that the work of the College, important and useful as it is already, is only fairly begun. Its usefulness and growth are now limited only by want of means adequate to its work. It is supported wholly on its receipts from tuition, and the interest of its endowment fund, but this requires great sacrifice from its teachers. Nothing contributed to it has been used in current expenses or in raising money, and it is not proposed to use any gift for these purposes. But the work which the College is now doing, requires that its endowment fund should be raised to $100,000. The Library should be largely increased immediately, and there is much need of more apparatus, and of additions to the Cabinet. The friends of the College, and of liberal education generally, are invited to contribute to these objects. Their donations will be used most advantageously in the present work of instruction, and in building up a strong and permanent institution for liberal culture.

Musical Department.

This Department aims to provide thorough instruction in playing the Piano-forte, in Solo and Chorus Singing, and in Musical Theory, including Harmony, Counterpoint, and the Elements of Form and Composition. Its instructors will seek to lay such a sure foundation in Technics as shall insure the progress of the pupils, and make it possible to introduce them to the works of the best composers. The true appreciation and interpretation of real works of Art will be the aim steadily kept in view.

Courses of Study.

A separate course of study is provided for each of the three branches of Piano-playing, Vocal Culture, and Theory; but the first-named course includes enough of Theory to enable the pianist to analyze and thoroughly understand the grammar of the compositions he plays, while the course in Vocal Culture, with the same amount of Theory, requires enough training in Piano-playing to enable the singer to play the most difficult accompaniments.

The ADVANCED DIVISION of each course occupies two years.

The PREPARATORY DIVISION includes the following work:

In Piano-playing, Technics throughout; Heller's Etudes, Op. 46 and 47; Krause's Etudes, Op. 2; Schumann's Album, Op. 68; Kuhlau's Sonatas, Op. 59, or Mozart's Sonatas, with such preparatory studies and pieces as shall make the study of these profitable.

In Vocal Culture, Mason's Solfeggios; M. C. Marchesi, Op. 5, Vocalises; Seiler's Exercises, (for female voices,) with songs.

Theory; Richter's Manual of Harmony, through suspensions; Mathews' Outline of Form.

In the course in Piano-playing, the work of the Preparatory Division of the course in Theory will be required, and in the course in Vocal Culture the work of the Preparatory Divisions in both the other courses will be required.

Pupils completing either of these courses will receive testimonials stating the fact.

Class Instruction.

Private lessons will be given whenever it seems desirable, but most of the instruction will be given in classes of three, three lessons per week. The class system has many advantages over private instruction, it has been thoroughly tested, and is used in all the musical Conservatories of Europe and America.

Chorus Singing.

Provision has been made for three singing classes of different grades of advancement. Each of these classes receives two lessons per week. Admission to each class $1,00 with use of book, or 75 cents, the pupil furnishing his own book. There is also a choral society called the Mendelssohn Society, which studies the best choral works under the direction of the Professor of Music of the college. Members of this society pay an admission fee of 50 cents.

Rehearsals.

Once a week all the pupils are required to meet for an hour to listen to such exercises as may have been prepared for the occasion. The teachers assign pupils exercises at their discretion, preparing them for these semi-public performances by means of their regular class work. They also frequently play or sing at the rehearsals for the benefit of the pupils. Every term one or more of these rehearsals is thrown open to the public, thus giving pupils the very valuable discipline of public performance. It will be seen that by the system of class instruction, by means of the weekly rehearsals and the various public exercises in which pupils are selected to perform, the pupils are kept constantly playing and singing before others throughout the entire course. They thus acquire a degree of ease and self-possession not otherwise attainable.

Attendance, &c.

The terms will commence with the regular college terms. The pupils are expected to begin promptly with the term and continue to the end, attending punctually all the lessons and making full use of all the hours assigned for practice. The teachers cannot make up lessons lost through absence of the pupil, even when such absence was excused. Pupils must receive all the lessons in each term which the teachers stand prepared to give, or bear the loss themselves. Exceptions can be made only in case of several weeks' illness, or other equally unavoidable contingency, in which case lessons will be made up, or if that is for any reason impossible, a portion of the tuition will be refunded.

Tuition and Other Expenses.

All bills for tuition, piano rent, etc., are due in advance. No deduction made for temporary absence, except in case of several weeks' illness. Sheet Music can be obtained at 25 per cent discount from retail prices.

Pupils must furnish or rent their own pianos for practice. Pianos can be rented at from $3.00 to $4.00 per quarter, one hour a day.

Board may be had in the college at $2.50 a week, or in a private family at very reasonable rates.

The following are the rates of tuition :

Piano, Theory or Vocal culture in classes, term of 14 weeks, $14.00 ; of 13 weeks, $13.00 ; of 12 weeks, $12.00.

Piano, in classes, (for beginners,) taught by an assistant, under the direction of the Professor of Music, $9.00, $10.00, and $11.00 for terms of 12, 13, and 14 weeks respectively.

Private lessons, from the Professor of Music, $1.00 per hour.

Application for admission or further information, should be addressed to JOHN C. FILLMORE, Professor of Music in Ripon College.

Application for admission to the Ladies' Department should be made to Mrs. Minerva B. Norton, Principal.

Other applications may be made to the Secretary of the Faculty, or to Pres. W. E. Merriman.
